

SOAR! Helps in an Emergency

In October, St. Michael Villa, the retirement home for the Sisters of St. Joseph of Peace in Englewood Cliffs, New Jersey, was seriously damaged in a fire. All of the Sisters evacuated safely, but they needed help meeting their immediate needs.

Thanks to our donors, SOAR! quickly responded. Within 24 hours, SOAR! sent the Sisters a $10,000 grant.

Almost every request we receive has a degree of urgency, but there are times when something has to happen right away – and there is nowhere else to turn. In the past 12 months, SOAR! has awarded a half a dozen emergency grants. Requests included:

- a new oil tank for a congregation whose 54-year-old oil tank gave up at the beginning of winter;
- a patient lift for an elderly Sister who would be confined to her bed without it after she returned to the convent from the hospital; and

- a security system for Sisters, so that they could have peace of mind after a break in.

More and more, congregations are turning to us to help them not only with planned renovations, but in emergencies as well.

With limited resources, Catholic religious know how important it is to make careful plans for the future. But they also know how quickly an emergency can throw them off track. In times like these, SOAR! is there to support them.

You help us continue to be that reliable resource for aging Sisters, Brothers and Priests in their time of need.

The Sisters, Brothers and Priests we serve are getting older every day. You help us give them peace of mind.

Dear
Friends of SOAR!

When I turned 30 (a few years ago!) I felt like I was at my prime – physically, spiritually and intellectually charged to take on any challenge in ministry, ready to be the best religious Sister I could be. I saw turning 30 as a new beginning. And now, that’s how I feel about SOAR!

When the founding board met in 1986 to develop the mission for Support Our Aging Religious and strategize how best to serve religious, I wonder if they envisioned an organization that would still be going strong 30 years later? Or did they feel the financial deficits and challenges facing women and men religious would be resolved in 10 or 15 years? Certainly the needs of aging religious have changed, and so SOAR! has adapted as well to face those challenges and to meet those needs. So, while we celebrate the history of SOAR! this year and mark the milestone of turning 30, it really is a new beginning.

Thank you for being a part of this journey with us and for being a part of our future. It is only with the financial support and prayerful concern of our benefactors that we are able to reach out to aging Sisters, Priests and Brothers and make their lives a little bit better by offering safety, comfort and dignity. Now that SOAR! is in its prime, let’s work together to take on new challenges and be the best organization we can be.

Happy New Year!

Sharing Our Stories

Mr. Scully has always been around Catholic religious. He knows of the “good work” they’ve done.

Growing up in Oregon, Francis “Bud” Scully remembers how he was educated by Catholic Sisters.

“They were wonderful. They had a principal that I loved. She was just darling – Sister Evelyn Mary,” he said. She was a cultivated woman who knew “how to behave like a lady” and a deft manager of people, he said. “She had some real smarts and she knew just how to operate.”

“I loved her, I was a teacher’s pet in the eighth grade.”

His own sister entered the Society of Holy Child Jesus in 1947 at age 25 and became Sister Mary Joel Scully.

Later, he was introduced to the Carmelite Sisters of the Most Sacred Heart of Los Angeles, who took care of his sister. “I thought, they’ve got some real spunk,” he said.

Through his life, he said he saw firsthand the challenges that Catholic religious congregations faced caring for their aging members.

When he was introduced to SOAR! through his friend, board member John Coleman, Mr. Scully said that he generously responded because he knew personally that Catholic religious need help.

“The nuns really did a lot of wonderful things, in hospitals, in schools, in charities, in general,” he said.

Sisters, Brothers and Priests gave their lives in service to others and expected little in return. Supporting SOAR! is one way people can say thank you for the good work of our Catholic religious.
